DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 17 lacks sufficient structure for the functional language of "placing a rare earth metal-based permanent magnet...in said treating vessel."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5-8, and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nakagawa et al. [JP 64-55806].

Regarding claims 1 and 17-20, Nakagawa et al. discloses a rare earth metal-based permanent magnet having a film layer made of a fine metal powder directly on a metal forming the surface of the magnet [constitution].

Regarding claims 2-3, Nakagawa et al. disclose the film layer being copper [constitution].

Regarding claims 5-6, Nakagawa et al. disclose the film layer being aluminum [constitution].

Regarding claims 7-8, Nakagawa et al. disclose the magnet being a bonded resin R-Fe-B rare earth metal-based permanent magnet [constitution].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakagawa et al. in view of Takaguchi et al. [JP 09007810]

Nakagawa et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the specific hardness of the film layer.

Takaguchi et al. disclose a film layer on a permanent magnet having a low hardness metal plating layer.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a low hardness plating layer for the metal layer of Nakagawa et al., as suggested by Takaguchi et al., in order to stop up pin holes.

The specific hardness used would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to vary the hardness, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Art Unit: 2832

Claims 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakagawa et al. in view of Yoshimura et al. [JP 09-289108]

Nakagawa et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the specific thickness of the film layer.

Yoshiyama et al. disclose a film layer on a permanent magnet being relatively thin.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a thin layer thickness for the metal layer of Nakagawa et al., as suggested by Yoshiyama et al., in order to improve adhesion and maintain the desired magnetic properties.

The specific hardness used would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to vary the thickness, since it has been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).
